Dear Summerfield Community,

Steve Herrington, Superintendent of Schools for the county, has sent an email saying his office has received word that a new stay-at-home order, similar to the one in March, could be issued this week.

The order is expected to differ from last spring in that schools that are currently open will likely be allowed to continue under their current protocols. That said, extra caution from everyone at this time will help us stay healthy and keep the school open.

We will keep you updated as necessary, and thank you for all you are doing to keep our community as healthy and safe as possible,

Jason Gross, for the Governance Council
